DINE IN DICKER HALL

Faculty Man Offers Prize for Best Paper in the State

During the mid-winter meeting of the Kentucky Press Association held in Lexington, Thursday and Friday, December 29 and 30, unusual interest in the problems of the University of Kentucky was shown by that body, many of whose members individually took occasion to pledge themselves and their papers to promotion of the University program of reconstruction.

On Thursday evening the Association accepted the invitation of the University to a dinner in Dicker Hall, which was attended by sixty-five or seventy editors, their wives, and members of the University faculty.

Enoch Grehan, head of the Department of Journalism, acted as toastmaster on this occasion. The address of welcome, given by President Frank L. McVey, was responded to by W. L. Dawson of Lagrange, president of the association. Addresses were also made by Anthony Woodson, assistant editor of the Louisville Times; Dean Thomas P. Cooper, of the College of Agriculture; B. F. Forgy, editor of the Ashland Independent; Harry Giovannoli, editor of the Lexington Leader; and Professor E. F. Farquhar, of the Department of English. Music was supplied by Professor and Mrs. Carl Lampert and their daughters, Misses Jeanette and Marcia.

Prize Offered For Best Paper

At the final session of the association on Friday, Lawrence H. Fitzhugh, editor of the Wilmore Enterprise, at the instance of the Department of Journalism of the University, offered a prize of twenty-five dollars in gold donated personally by Mr. Grehan, head of the department, for the best Kentucky news-

SPECIAL TRYOUTS FOR STROLLERS TO BE JAN. 9

"The Thirteenth Chair to Be Given This Year."

Because of illness and other conflicting events when the annual Stroller tryouts were held early in October, many of the students who were desirous of becoming Stroller eligibles were unable to arrange a one act play, and for this reason special tryouts will be held Monday afternoon January 9 at 3:30. Any one wishing to tryout must be at the Little Theatre at 3:30 prepared to present before the committee, a one act play, reading or poem.

"The Thirteenth Chair" has been selected as the play to be given by the Stroller's this year. Miss Cave of the city Library will read the play before all those who expect to tryout for a part, in the Little Theatre Monday night at 7:45. Anyone who intends to tryout should be present for this reading, as it will be of great advantage in helping them select the part which they think most suited for them.

Editors Approve College Made Newspaper Man

Miss Margaret McLaughlin, of the Department of Journalism, University of Kentucky, was one of the five women delegates to attend the Convention of The National Association of teachers of Journalism, held at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin, December 28-30. The meeting was attended by 45 teachers and in this number practically every large institution, in which there is a Journalism Department, was represented.

Subjects of general interest for the development of courses in Journalism were discussed and some of the principal speakers were, the editors of the Chicago Tribune and the Daily News and prominent advertising men. In their speeches these men told of their approval of schools of Journalism and how they had not thought them an advantage a few years ago. They said that schools of Journalism were now best means of making a good journalist and not by practice as formerly thought.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN TO HEAR HELEN BENNETT

Vocational Specialist will Lecture to Co-eds in Chapel Wednesday

The first of a series of talks on vocational subjects of especial interest to University girls will be given by Miss Helen M. Bennett, of Chicago, next Wednesday, January 11, at the fifth hour in chapel, under the auspices of the Woman's League. All women connected with the University are invited to hear this unusual speaker and to be present at a tea given for her at Patterson Hall Tuesday, January 10, at 4 p. m.

Miss Bennett is director of the Collegiate Bureau of Occupations, of Chicago, and is a specialist in vocational guidance and employment. She has written articles for various magazines and is interested in placing college graduates in congenial positions. Personal conferences may be had with her Wednesday at the sixth, seventh and eighth hours. Girls should sign up for these in the office of the Dean of Women, or on the Woman's League Room Bulletin Board.

Topics for the series of lectures were chosen by vote taken among women students December 6. The choice of subjects, only the first seven of which can be presented, is as follows:

In view of the fact that dairy cows poultry and hogs are the only paying animals for the farmer of today and realizing that the hog is coming to occupy a more important place in farming industry of the State, plans are being made to give special attention to all phases of pork production in the Tenth Annual Farm and Home Convention held at the College of Agriculture January 31-February 3. J. P. Phillips, vice-president and treasurer of the Birmingham Packing Company, Birmingham, Ala., will be one of the principal speakers. He will follow the life of the pig from the time he is one month old through the feed lot, market, slaughter house, the cutting and curing process and finally to the consumer.

During the four days of convention, a special program will be conducted for farm women in which they will hear discussions by both national and state authorities on problems of home making and management.

The "Rural Life Conference," said to be the first of its kind held in Kentucky, promises to be another feature of the 1922 convention.

Engineers Trained Here Proficient in Telephony

Acting Dean Freeman has just received from the headquarters of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Cumberland Telephone & Telegraph Company, in Atlanta, a finely illustrated booklet entitled "Triumphs of Telephone Engineering."

This booklet was prepared by the Bell System to present to college men the interesting scientific and technical nature of the telephone business, with a view to directing their thoughts to telephone work as a field for permanent employment after graduation. Interested seniors and juniors in the various engineering courses should apply to Professor Freeman for copies of the booklet.

A number of University of Kentucky men are in the employ of the Bell System in the Southeast, notably: C. F. Lee, J. W. Kunzman and G. C. Watkins. These men are doing well in the telephone business and are reflecting much credit upon their training at this institution.

DEPUTATION WORK BY Y. M. C. A. BEARS FRUIT

University Sends Out Its First Delegation Since World War Closed

The University of Kentucky's first Y. M. C. A. Deputation team since 1916 with L. B. Hall, W. R. Hutchinson and F. M. Heath and Secretary Bart Peak in charge went to Butler Kentucky and held Evangelistic meetings for three days.

The Hi Y Club of Butler High School entertained the team while there and were responsible for the success of the three days session. Meetings were held in the Christian, Baptist and Methodist Churches. The pastors of the town and the principle of the High School cooperated with the team.

The opening subject was "The Upward Way" and the Program was as follows: "Wake Up"—L. B. Hall. "Look Up"—W. R. Hutchinson. "Pep Up"—Bart Peak. "Clean Up"—F. M. Heath.

The next meeting was given over to personal work and every house in town was visited by some member of the team. Five personal interviews were held. L. B. Hall spoke of "Clean Athletics." Fleanor Heath spoke on "The Call of the Twentieth Century."

W. R. Hutchinson was speaker at the session to Sunday School pupils Sunday afternoon. At this meeting twelve decisions were made by the boys to give up different habits in their lives.

Mr. Peak spoke on "The Abundant Life."

This is the first time a Deputation team has been sent to any part of the State from the University since Secretary E. L. Hall took a team to Carlisle and at the same time sent another in charge of Frank Kennedy to Falmouth. It is hoped that soon more places in the State may be reached in this way by the University Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Benjamin J. Bush of this city will be the speaker at the joint meeting of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. which will be held Sunday January 8 at Patterson Hall at 6:30. His subject has not yet been announced but everyone knows that it will be an attractive one and well worth hearing. Special music will help to make this first program of the new ing at the home of Dean Frances Jewell last Thursday afternoon.

U. K. BASKETBALL SQUAD RESUMES ITS POST HOLIDAY PRACTICE

Hayden's Bad Knee Flares Up Again Threatening to Keep Him Out Of Work

BUCKHEIT SEES "PEP"

Says He Will Make No More Cuts if Players Stick To Present Form

Post-holiday practice of the Wildcat Basketball squad was resumed Tuesday. It consisted mainly of light preliminary work to straighten out the kinks left by the two weeks layoff.

The first game of the season, which is Georgetown will be played here a week from Saturday and Coach Buckheit promises rather strenuous practice henceforth, with scrimmage Friday and Saturday and all next week. The bad luck jinx seems to be following Basil Haden's footsteps, as he injured his knee again during the holidays. This injury may keep Basil off the squad for a month.

Men who were successful in surviving the latest cut are working with the old "pep" the spirit and Coach Buckheit promises that this will be the last one, if this kind of work continues. The men and the positions they are trying out for are as follows:

For Center, Atkins, Fest, Neal and Wilhelm.

For Forwards, Baylus, Elliott, Hayden, Will King, Kenneth King, Langsford, Poyntz, Riefkin, Riley, and Wilkerson.

For Guards, Barnes, Boren, Burnham, Davidson, Lavin, Rice, Ridgway, Siler and Smith.

KAPPA ALPHAS AND PHI KAPPA TAU TIE

Both Frats "Pull Down" Same Figure in Scholarship Standing

A report of the standing and attendance of the eleven social fraternities on the campus for the second semester of 1920-21 has been compiled by Dean Melcher.

According to these statistics, the Kappa Alpha and Phi Kappa Tau fraternities are tied for the first place, each having an average standing of 1.57. The standings of the other fraternities are, in order: Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 1.51; Phi Delta Theta, 1.48; Alpha Tau Omega, 1.48; Sigma Nu, 1.47; Sigma Chi, 1.38; Alpha Sigma Phi, 1.33; Pi Kappa Alpha, 1.30; Delta Chi, 1.30; and Kappa Sigma, 1.20.

Of the 830 men students enrolled in the University during the second semester of 1920-21, 227 were members of social fraternities and 603 were not members of social fraternities.

The average number of class hours missed by fraternity members in the Arts and Science College was twenty-two; in the College of Agriculture, fourteen; in the Engineering College, sixteen; and in the Law College, eighteen.

CAMPUS CHATETR

The Strollers met Friday afternoon in the Stroller room for what is known in Stroller parlance as "first reading" of "The Thirteenth Chair," the play to be given this year by that organization. The stenographic department prepared for the Strollers, copies of the various parts of the play to be given out for study. It is the purpose of the Strollers to make their selections for the cast early and arrange for a tour in several towns of the state during the Easter holidays.

Dean Boyd called a meeting Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 of heads of departments of the College of Arts and Sciences for the purpose of discussing routine matters affecting the closing up of the current semester and beginning of the forthcoming semester. All heads of departments of the College of Arts and Sciences were present.

Miss Elsie Racke, Newport, a junior is back in school after an absence of five weeks, two of which were holiday weeks. Miss Racke was called home because of serious illness of her mother, who is now somewhat improved. Miss Racke has been very much missed on the staff of the Kernel and other student publications.

Several rooms in the basement of the Old Chemistry building which have been under process of reconstruction and refurnishing virtually thruout the semester will soon be ready for occupancy, thus adding materially to the very much needed working space of the old Chemistry building.

Miss Margaret McLaughlin, professor in the Department of Journalism, was one of many University staff members who attended various educational meetings held throughout the country during the holidays. Miss McLaughlin attended the meeting of the Association of the American Teachers of Journalism held at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wis. She was on the program for a talk in round table discussion, on "The Ethics of Journalism," but on account of unusual pressure for time, this and several other features were omitted from the program. The next meeting of this association will be in Chicago next December with the Medill School of Journalism.

Great numbers of the alumni association of the state and throughout the country have just received the Christmas number of the alumni bulletin published by the Alumni Association of the University and prepared and distributed to various class secretaries by Herbert Graham, Alumni secretary, who has an office in the Administration building. The bulletin contains, under head of "Christmas Greetings," a number of items of interest to alumni affecting development of that fast growing organization through out the country. Considerable information sent out by the bulletin was of a nature confidential with alumni.

With the beginning of the first week after the close of holidays the press association furnishing news to various papers of the State concerning activities of students in committees where such papers are published; also, the press association covering information concerning larger activities of the University in papers throughout the country that carry educational matter, resumed work the current week and a number of such stories was "put on the wire" the first post-holiday week.

The Graduate Club will meet Tuesday evening January 10 at 7:30, at Dr. Lirrell's office.

Class Basketball Teams Take Up Their Work.

Organization of the class basketball teams has begun in earnest. The names of the men who were successful in making the freshmen basketball team have been posted and are as follows: Foust, Hanlon, Jones, McVay, Manion, Moore, Netherton, Rohs, Reed, Swearington, Terrell, Weingartners and Wathen.

Men trying out for the Sophomore class team met in the Armory Thursday afternoon to contest for places on the team. The Juniors also met Thursday afternoon for the organization of their class team.

The Seniors met in the Armory Friday afternoon at 4:45 p. m. to organize their team. The names of the men who succeeded in making berths on the various teams will be posted later. No definite information as to the schedules of the teams can be given at this time.

Farmers Back University

The Farmers Union of Kentucky "is very much interested in the University getting sufficient funds to equip it for a high standing in comparison with the leading universities of the United States," according to a letter from E. L. Harrison, '09, the state president. Organizers have been requested to boost the University in their numerous talks in fifty counties in the state where the union now has organizations in progress.

The eight-million-dollars appropriation was endorsed generally and then received additional commendation from the state executive committee.

"We sincerely hope that every possible effort will be put forward by all Kentuckians interested in education to enable us to build up a great university at Lexington," Mr. Harrison says. "Personally speaking, I am emphasizing the importance of a larger university, which will enable us to have a better Commonwealth and, of course, a better citizenship."

"Speaking frankly" he continued, "I think we have got to work very hard to get what the university is entitled to because of the lack of appreciation in Kentucky for such an institution of learning."

Ingels Praises Work

A wish for some means to cause the citizens of Kentucky to "realize and appreciate what an asset the University is and particularly what Paul Anderson (Dean of the College of Engineering) has done for Kentucky" is expressed by Howard P. Ingels, '05 financial banker, 14 Wall Street, New York City, in a letter to the editor of the Kernel.

"It has been my good fortune to have had an opportunity to observe most of our leading men in action, and I don't know of anyone that has any more real ability than our own 'Little Paul,'" says Mr. Ingels. "Each year I appreciate more the great work that Dean Anderson has done for the University and for the young men of Kentucky."

"The Kernel is doing great work," Mr. Ingels asserts. "You fellows are doing more to arouse enthusiasm and cooperation among the alumni than you realize."

Betwixt Us

Wishes for a happy Christmas and New Year were received from far off Indo-China, from A. M. Kirby, '07 at Saigon, Indo-China. He is branch manager there for the Standard Oil Company.

Prospects for a strong Kittens basketball team in 1940 have picked up since the announcement from Mrs. Olline Cruikshank Wilson '11, 1236 21st street Newport News, Va., of the arrival December 13 of a Miss Wilson. "She bids fair to be a basketball player in 1940 if all goes well," says Mrs. Cruikshank, who is class secretary. Her letter indicates, some discouragements for she hasn't "received a single answer out of forty letters. It is hard work but it always has been a pleasure to me. Few realize what it means to write eighty personal letters as I do"

"Edna Berkele, '19, spent the holidays in Paducah with Florence Brown and tells us that she finds much interesting news in the Kernel," Margaret Schweers, '15, 1027 Jefferson street, Paducah, writes in a letter to the Secretary. The McCracken alumni club is composed mainly of former students who have moved to Paducah from other counties, but is an active organization.

Suggestions That Appeal to Men

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper—secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarette aftertaste,

It's Camels for you.

A LIVING MEMORIAL TO WATTERSON

"Marse Henry" is dead. Just three days before the greatest celebration in all Chrisendom, while the entire nation was making joyous preparations to celebrate the coming of the "King of Kings" and hearts were filled with cheer, Colonel Henry Watterson over all the world as the American Journalists, was called the last account.

All American mourns the loss of one of the greatest journalists our world has ever known, a man who has done more to establish standards of journalism in this country than any other. Thus death the always unwelcome visitor has sheathed his pen and stilled a voice forever, but the spirit of Watterson will abide.

Kentucky admired Watterson and loved him as her very own. Though not a Kentuckian by birth he was by choice and it was Kentucky in which he chose to spend the best part of his life working for the welfare of her people and the furthurance of her leadership in the sisterhood of states.

Colonel Watterson was born in Tennessee in 1840 and before a score of years had passed was recognized as a talented man of letters. He began his newspaper service in Washington D. C. as musical and dramatic critic but his career was interrupted by the outbreak of the Civil War and he returned to his beloved Southland to serve in the army of the Confederacy and defend a home he loved against the invading forces of a government he admired. Like Lee, the heart of Watterson was torn between love and duty. He opposed secession yet after the die was cast he resolved to sacrifice all in the interest of the South.

After the war and the real suffering of the southern people began, "Marse Henry" located in Louisville, where as editor of the Courier, he strove in every way possible to heal the wounds and dry the tears caused by the mighty struggle of brother against brother. It was during the terrible days of reconstruction that the great editor did his best work and owing to his efforts the sears of battle began to be obliterated and a union began in this border state of ours which has proved itself more durable than it was before.

"Marse Henry" was a chivalrous soldier of the most admired type, a southerner, a loyal democrat, a gentleman of the old school and displayed those stalwart qualities which never yet have failed to challenge the admiration of manly men.

Mr. Watterson is appreciated in the University of Kentucky where his name has been prepetuated in the Henry Watterson School of Journalism and the Henry Watterson chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma, the honorary journalistic fraternity.

It has been suggested that the people of Kentucky erect a memorial to Watterson and it a worthy step toward perpetuating the memory of the beloved journalist throughout the generations to come. The city of Louisville is considering the propriety of changing the name of one of her streets to Watterson Street, of naming a park in his honor and of erecting a figure in bronze or marble to do honor to him. Thus is a noble sentiment expressed for the fame of Watterson should be carried forward through the years by the people of the city in which he made his home.

But as Colonel Watterson was a national figure it does not seem to us that a mere lifeless pillar of stone in a single city bearing the name of the man could be so appropriate to his memory as would be a useful tribute to him who loved and labored with the newspapermen of Kentucky. Would it not appear to thinking men of constructive vision that a living monument such as a new building erected on the campus of the University of Kentucky, named the Watterson building, to shelter its department of journalism which now occupies a limited space in the Science building and in which could be placed a modern composing room equipped with modern machinery to publish, even if it does not circulate, a daily paper and magazine. Thus proper space could be given for the proper teaching of all phases of journalism and the Kernel and Kentuckian would have appropriate offices instead of finding out-of-the way corners and hiding in them fearful of losing even these unimposing footholds because of the overcrowded condition in the University.

A building of this kind would be a lasting tribute to a notable citizen and would be a Godsend to the youth of Kentucky. We need more men like Watterson and it is the purpose of the schools of journalism to produce such men, but without necessary faculties Kentucky's energies devoted to this purpose are severely handicapped.

What could be more appropriate than a journalistic memorial to a great journalist? The name of the benefactor of young newspaper men would be perpetuated in the noblest of monuments, a beautiful building with which to further the ambitions of those who hope to follow in the footsteps of him whose name they might see daily in bold relief above the door as they entered for their daily duties.

What Is a Vacuum Furnace?

IN an ordinary furnace materials burn or combine with the oxygen of the air. Melt zinc, cadmium, or lead in an ordinary furnace and a scum of "dross" appears, an impurity formed by the oxygen. You see it in the lead pots that plumbers use.

In a vacuum furnace, on the contrary, the air is pumped out so that the heated object cannot combine with oxygen. Therefore in the vacuum furnace impurities are not formed.

Clearly, the chemical processes that take place in the two types are different, and the difference is important. Copper, for instance, if impure, loses in electrical conductivity. Vacuum-furnace copper is pure.

So the vacuum furnace has opened up a whole new world of chemical investigation. The Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company have been exploring this new world solely to find out the possibilities under a new series of conditions.

Yet there have followed practical results highly important to industry. The absence of oxidation, for instance, has enabled chemists to combine metals to form new alloys heretofore impossible. Indeed, the vacuum furnace has stimulated the study of metallurgical processes and has become indispensable to chemists responsible for production of metals in quantities.

And this is the result of scientific research.

Discover new facts, add to the sum total of human knowledge, and sooner or later, in many unexpected ways practical results will follow.

paper, exclusive of those published in cities of the first, second, and third class, the competing editors to submit any one copy of their respective papers published between January 1, 1922 and the date of the June meeting of the Kentucky Press Association.

Senff Augmented Prize

G. B. Senff editor of the Mount Sterling Sentinel-Democrat, augmented the award by offering a prize of ten dollars in gold for the second place. The association accepted the offer and appointed a committee to arrange details affecting the competition.

The association went on record as approving steps already taken, looking toward the establishing of a memorial to the late Henry Watterson and appointed a committee to cooperate with the promoters of that movement.

The association did not go on record, officially, as to what form it desired that such memorial should take, but it was informally suggested in discussion at the close of the regular session on Friday afternoon that the memorial take the form of augmenting instruction now being given in journalism in the University of Kentucky.

Suggest Journalism Building

Some members went so far as to insist that no finer expression on the part of for Mr. Watterson could be made than the Kentucky editors of their veneration either to establish upon the grounds of the University a building to house the Department of Journalism, or at least to increase its present equipment by introduction of the necessary printing machinery and materials, so as to give the student in journalism, in addition to his technical training, advantage of mechanical training.

CAMP MENTIONS BOBBIE FOR ALL- AMERICAN

Certainly added to that season of happiness and brought joy to the heart of all Kentuckians when he picked "Little Bobbie" Lavin for honorable mention for All-American quarterback.

Of course Kentuckians knew all the time that "Bobbie" deserved any honor that should be given him, but when Walter Camp came along and proved that we were right it is like adding large quantities of nog to good old fashioned Christmas Egg.

"Little Bobbie" has played three years of football and he has played it well. Who can ever forget that Vanderbilt game when with his ankle sprained and fighting against men twice his size he piloted his team with the courage and skill of a David.

"Bobbie" has been elected Captain of the Basketball team of the present season where he is expected again to show the same splendid fighting spirit that he has always shown in the past.

coveted prize the Cup of the S. I. A. A. Championship. The tournament was held at Atlanta last year and is to be held there again this year. With every man who helped win this victory last year back on the squad and even the tournament to be held at the same place, history seems bound to repeat itself.

When a team has a player, who with only one minute to play can pitch the goal that will decide the championship, that team has the nerve and the kind of spirit that does not know defeat. What was Kentucky's fortunate position last season.

The basketball schedule has practically been completed with the exception of the date of the second game with Centre. The Southern Tournament will be held at Atlanta, Georgia February 24 to 28. The schedule is as follows:

ONE BRAND- ONE QUALITY- One Size Package

All our skill, facilities, and lifelong knowledge of the finest tobaccos are concentrated on this one cigarette—CAMEL.

Into this ONE BRAND, we put the utmost quality. Nothing is too good for Camels. They are as good as it's possible to make a cigarette.

Camel QUALITY is always maintained at the same high, exclusive standard. You can always depend on the same mellow-mild refreshing smoothness—the taste and rich flavor of choicest tobaccos—and entire freedom from cigaretty aftertaste.

And remember this! Camels come in one size package only—20 cigarettes—just the right size to make the greatest saving in production and packing. This saving goes straight into Camel Quality. That's one reason why you can get Camel Quality at so moderate a price.

Here's another. We put no useless frills on the Camel package. No "extra wrappers!" Nothing just for show!

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And their added cost must go onto the price or come out of the quality.

One thing—and one only—is responsible for Camels great and growing popularity—

That is CAMEL QUALITY.

In Selecting a University—

For a college education, there are five things to be taken into consideration:

1. The men at the head of the Institution.
2. The scholastic standing and ability of the Teaching Staff.
3. The location and advantages of environment.
4. Equipment, buildings, laboratories and libraries.
5. Cost.

In all these respects the University of Kentucky commends itself to those seeking a higher institution in which to carry on their education.

All Departments, including Liberal Arts, Sciences, Agriculture, Law, Education, Mining, Civil, Electrical and Mechanical Engineering.

The College of Agriculture and Experiment Station have lost two workers recently and as yet their successors have not been chosen.

Former Assistant State Leader of Agricultural Club Work, College of Agriculture, has left the University to accept a similar position at Purdue. For a year and a half he did excellent work directing the training of boys and girls of this State. He was graduated from Purdue with the Class of 1920.

A. S. Chapin, Extension Specialist in Poultry, has left the Station and gone to University of Tennessee where he will instruct Federal Board Students. For a number of years Mr. Chapin has been connected with the Station and owing to his efforts much good work has been done and interest in the poultry industry greatly stimulated.

New Year Resolutions.

Now, since all of the girls and students have returned with new leaves turned and minds made up to follow the paths toward perfection, let us see what or about what they have resolved to do.

I have talked with a number, many of whom have let out a lot of this old cheap bromide stuff about laying off cigarettes, liquor, wild women, rolled stockings, working the boys, being late to class, getting Es, handing lines, and getting behind in the board with Mrs. S. H. Feedum, but that will last about as long as did these mustard colored dresses of several annuses ago.

I also ran into several real resolvers. One girl told me that she was never to go with a boy she did not like, not even out to dinner. Elizabeth resolved never to fuss, not even with Charlie. Another told me that she was going to have a real, honest-to-goodness, love affair, passionate. She was going to seek him out and play the vamp and make him love her. She's ugly. Poor girl!"

Approaching Old Maidhood has made up her mind to marry even if he is what he is not. A June Wedding will be lovely. I've been thinking about that, too. Sweet and Coy eighteen has never been kissed and she has decided to have one wild, reckless compromising night and get osculated, once, just to see how it feels and to see if she will get a thrill out of a little peck. She will, if she takes the right boy.

My country cousin's wife has avowed that she will lay in a supply of something every week. The first week she is going to bean herself. Next she is going to salt and pickle herself, and then in the right sequence she is going to bread herself, meat herself, flour herself, and sardine herself.

Our capitalist has avowed that he will no longer let his stew-dent son cost him more than a string of race horses, chronic indigestion and his five marriageable daughters. Said son, on the other hand, has resolved to buy him a motor, big bull-dog pipe and knock the old school off by making love to nineteen, fair separate and distinct blonds during each twenty-three days of his Pierian endeavor.

Our boy who is working his way thru college resolves to save every cent he can, and to put in that extra fifteen minutes between drill and dinner, instead of crabbing with the birds at the boarding house.

Squirrel, so termed, resolves to find the author of said article and show her how easily she will fall if encouraged. Several bachelor professors, you know 'em, have resolved to get married to, you know 'em, too. My resolve is to do my work so well that I will not have to swell the entire batch of history, from Alexander the Great to Trotsky on the night before judgment.

Mother sent me down the street to buy some eggs. Before entering the place where they sell these cackle berries I saw a sign which read, "No Loafing Allowed."

Dean Jewell and Professor Sax Placed on Committee For Plans

Dean Frances Jewell and Prof. Carol Sax, head of the Art Department of the University are members of a committee which has been appointed to discuss future plans for the Dramatic Institute which is being conducted under the auspice of the Civic League in this city.

George Junkin, New York City, who is conducting the institute, declared at a meeting held Wednesday night, that Lexington presented an ideal place for a year around theatre with indoor plays in the winter, and pageants and festivals outdoors in the summer. Production, Mr. Junkin said, is not merely coaching a play. The psychology of the audience, the choice of the play, the character of the plot are important considerations, and he warned the class that moderation is the keynote of modern productions, with the one act play as the best medium of expression.

Mr. Sax also gave a most instructive talk, in which he outlined the accomplishments of the Vagabond Theatre in Baltimore, which is the oldest little theatre group which has been continually producing since its inception, seven years ago.

Shallenberger's Meter—1888

Single-Phase Meter—1921

Oliver B. Shallenberger

IT IS ONE THING to produce a new idea that is simply of theoretical interest. It is another to make the new idea into a commercial success.

This is the story of Oliver B. Shallenberger, and how in 1888 he discovered the principle that led him to invent the watt-hour meter, the familiar little device that makes practicable the commercial distribution of alternating current, which means 95% of all the electricity that is distributed.

Shallenberger, who resigned a Naval commission to take up his work with Westinghouse, made his discovery while experimenting with a newly devised alternating current arc lamp. His attention was attracted by the behavior of a small spring which had fallen upon the main magnet of the lamp, into such a position that the forces proceeding from both the magnet coil and the extended soft iron core affected it. And the simple little thing that he noticed was merely that the spring was slowly rotating! But to the intelligently curious observer, that was enough.

Further experiments having satisfied him that the action was caused by alternating electric currents, he set to work, encouraged by his knowledge of Westinghouse policies, to make practical the newly found principle. Three weeks of almost uninterrupted toil, and he had produced the first practical alternating current meter of the induction type—the universal type of the present time.

Thus for the first time the measurement of the quantity of alternating current passing through a line was made commercially practicable and its distribution became possible from an economic as well as an engineering point of view. In fact, the whole structure of our great power systems depends upon the accurate measurement, by millions of such meters, of the electricity used in the homes and industries of the nation. So well was Shallenberger's work done, and so complete was his conception of the possibilities of his discovery, that for more than thirty years his fundamental idea has been in use in many and various forms.

The encouragement which Westinghouse has always given to new ideas, and the judgment with which they have been evaluated, are nowhere better exemplified than in this story of the alternating current meter.

REGIONAL CONFERENCE TO CONVE NE JAN. 24-25

Study of Highway Economy and Interesting Pro- gram Planned.

The University will furnish a setting for another important gathering when the Regional Conference for Study of Highway Economy and Highway Transport convenes Tuesday January 24, for a two days session.

This meeting is only one of a series being held throughout the United States but it is the University of Kentucky's policy to cooperate in any movement which tends toward advancement and with that in view is cooperating with the Highway and Highway Transport Education Committee. Invitations have been sent to county surveyors, contractors, county judges and road builders of all kinds and it is expected that from this convention a great deal of good information may be gained and that better roads for Kentucky, as a whole may be the outcome.

The program, as it now stands, carries the names of several very prominent persons and is as the following:

Tuesday January 24.

2:00 p. m. W. E. Freeman, acting Dean of the College of Engineering, Presiding. Address of Welcome, President McVey.

"The Relation of the United States Bureau of Education to Highway Development," D. J. J. Tigert, U. S. Commissioner of Education.

"The future of Highway Transport," E. S. Jordan, President Jordan Motor Car Company.

"Recent Developments in Highway Engineering Research," Dr. W. K. Hatt, National Research Council.

Dinner 7:00 p. m.

Address by Thomas H. McDonald, Chief of the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture.

"Kentucky's Road Problems," Joe S. Boggs, State Highway Engineer of Kentucky.

"The Scope and Purpose of Federal Aid in Behalf of Improved Highways and its Relation to the States," Representative John M. Robinson.

Wednesday January 25.

9:30 a. m. "Possibilities of maintaining lower cost surfaces," W. N. Bosler, Assistant State Highway Engineer.

"Safety First Education in the Public Schools," Miss Harriett Beard, Sup. of Safety Education, Detroit Mich.

"The Over Loading of Motor Trucks, Its Relation to Construction and Maintenance," Dr. J. G. McKey, University of Wisconsin.

"The Training of Engineers for the New Highway Building Program," D. V. Terrell, University of Kentucky.

2:00 p. m. Automobile trip through inspection highways in and around Lexington.

SURVEY COMMISSION CONSIDERED BY K. E. A.

Needs of University Pre- Sented to Assembly by Dead Boyd

A convention of the county and city section of the Kentucky Education Association was held in Frankfort during the holidays to consider the Report of the Survey Commission and to make plans for the coming Legislature.

Dr. Bachmann, who was in charge of the Survey gave a number of addresses, the two most important of which were the Reorganization of the State Board of Education and the Proper Certification Plan for Teachers. In the former Dr. Bachmann urged that the present ex officio boards made up of the superintendents of schools, attorney general, and secretary of State should be done away with. He recommended a board of citizens not connected with state administration should be appointed by the Governor and suggested that the policy of the board be so arranged that the term of office of only two members expired each year and thus perpetuate a continuous board. The main thought of Dr. Bachmann's talk on the Proper Certification of Teachers was that there should be more and better faculties for preparing elementary teachers. The Teachers Colleges and Universities are adequate to prepare High School teachers but the preparation of elementary teachers has been neglected in Kentucky.

The general recommendations of the Survey Commission including the two made by Dr. Bachmann were approved by the assembly.

Dean Boyd presented the needs of the University of Kentucky to the assembly of County and City School Superintendents.

Members of the faculty of the University of Kentucky who attended the convention were: Dean P. P. Boyd, Ezra Gillis, McHenry Rhodes, L. J. Sindell, J. T. C. Noe, B. E. Barringer and R. W. Sies.

SENIOR PICTURES MUST BE IN BY JANUARY 15

The following Seniors have not turned in senior pictures. Unless turned in by January 10, they will not be in Senior Section of the annual.

J. W. Holland, N. D. Connor, J. A. Hoggan, D. C. Green, G. E. Ford, M. L. Bauta, Neol Wilkerson, H. Wilson, M. T. Brooks, H. C. Wier, Henry Bryant, F. D. Hendericks, Bernen McClure, Wendell Smorh, Henry Sullivan.

All fraternities, group, local, and any kind of picture must be in by January 12, if they go in the 1922 Kentuckian.

Any one wishing to buy a Annual may do so until January 15, after that date no copies will be attainable. See C. V. Watson, A. L. Atchinson.
